

WITNESSES TWO ZEPPELIN RAIDS

Tulsa Man Has Thrilling Adventures in City of London.

GLAD TO BE BACK

Says America Is Deprived by Englishmen on Account of Policy.

In extreme two Zeppelin raids on the city of London, says the amazing experience afforded Mr. K. Wattis of this city recently while serving his country in the English capital, Mr. Wattis will be assistant to the president of Standard Oil & Refining corporation, has just returned from a three weeks' business and pleasure trip to England.

Always an interesting nation, Wattis has some stories to tell of his observations in the war city which graphically picture the activities there.

While in London Wattis saw and talked with Paul Arben, a young Englishman from Tulsa, who is serving as an aviator on the British airship. A British man was operating in London from the effects of a fall and being wounded by the Germans while flying over the lines at Ypres. Arben, Mr. Wattis says, is wounded through one hand and one foot but is suffering severely from the nervous shock. His observer in the machine was killed instantly when the plane came in contact of the German guns and the machine began to fall, but although wounded Arben managed to right the wings and land with a heavy crash inside his own lines.

What Wattis was in London the German was slightly descended on the city and one time one of the big Zeppelins was shot down while the thousands and thousands of Londoners watched and cheered. Wattis was one of the watchers but probably due to his regard for the neutrality law he neglected to say whether or not he cheered.

Has War Pictures.

He brought back with him some wonderful pictures of a Zeppelin raid and also managed to smuggle in a piece of the twisted aluminum framework of the wrecked war machine which proves a very interesting relic of the stirring times in England.

London, says Mr. Wattis, is serious about this war and everybody is anxious.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. This is the reason why it is so difficult to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most cases, knowing the cause does not know what will relieve it, as to give it relief. All can be relieved, provided the usual pain relief will give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual and treatment is again necessary. By using Stuart's Headache Tablets to prevent or to overcome headache disorders.

ECHOES

THE Germans AND G. N. Wright SEEIM to have Acquired ON THE BOMBS. Bound.

privately engaged in the business of whipping the Hohes in the least possible time, although he declares the time is now estimated to be two more years.

English officers, Wattis related, no longer carry swords and pistols, but instead are armed with a peculiar kind of knife and/or whet wheel, lead to cut hoods and belts of leather. These weapons are more useful than a sword and especially in the close warfare in the underground cellars and trenches of the Germans.

The United States is far from popular in Europe, Mr. Wattis found, and he declared that the famous phrase "too proud to fight" is derived in every sense by the people in London. However, he found that the allies do not want the United States to get into the war now, as they say they would rather have the resources of the country with which to back up their own manufacturers of war munitions.

All Europe, said Wattis, confidently expects the Japanese and United States to become involved in a war before many years and he gives some very interesting facts along this line if the German U-boats persist in their campaign against shipping along the Atlantic coast. Wattis says the business that will be called into service to patrol these waters as English Guards, spaced along the coast, for this duty. Such an occurrence would bring the Japanese question to a point where any little thing might easily break the strained relations already existing.

CATTLE THIEF IS SHOT AT BRISTOW

Unidentified Negro Loses Life in Battle With Charles Kilgore There.

Special to the World
TULSA, Okla., Oct. 24.—Late yesterday evening Charles Kilgore shot and killed a negro in a struggle at a point a few miles east and north of the city. With Kilgore at the time of the killing was his brother-in-law, Lee Allen, and another white man by the name of Morgan.

The trouble grew out of the alleged stealing of cattle by the negro, and Kilgore, Allen and Morgan went after them. When they found the blacks they told them what they were after and the negro who was killed drew his gun and pointed it at Morgan, but, before he could shoot, Kilgore drew his gun and fired, hitting the negro in the head and killing him dead.

The negro then turned and fired a shot at Kilgore, the bullet passing close enough to him that it cut the collar of his coat. Kilgore then shot again and the shot entered the negro's body above the loins on the right side and produced almost instant death.

Kilgore immediately came to Bristow and surrendered himself to Deputy Sheriff James A. Self, and the deputy took him to Sepulpa this morning.

SHORTAGE OF CARS HITS WHOLE NATION

Every Railroad in United States Suffers Acutely From Famine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Railroads of the United States are suffering from the greatest shortage of cars ever known since the beginning of the year, according to figures made public here today. On September 30 there was not shortage of 61,930 cars. This compares with a surplus of 121,027 cars October 1, 1914, and 75,299 on the corresponding date last year.

The greatest shortage is in box cars, totaling 23,916, while flat and gondola cars are holding to the extent of 19,372. The greatest shortage of box cars is in the greater states, while the lack of flat and gondola cars is felt most severely in the central and eastern sections.

Railway men say the high point of the shortage will be reached some time next month, and that mild weather would tend to minimize the difficulty.

I. C. C. Helpless in Case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Interstate commerce commission has no authority which would relieve the car shortage, and its only concern in the situation is to watch the work of its safety appliance inspectors in order that the great pressure for cars may not result in damage through these inspectors. It is being kept informed of the status of the shortage.

The official reports show a car famine in every section of the country, and the commission's view is that it is caused in large part by the extraordinary traffic conditions brought about by the commercial demands of the European war.

Effort to Speed Up.

Reports show that some of the railroads are slow to meet the situation and the effort is to speed up the tracing of cars, to minimize the holding of cars on sidetracks to accommodate shippers.

Some railroad officials in the south contend that the shortage complained of in some cases was due to cars being held up on lines in the north, but investigation showed that hundreds of cars were being used as warehouses at ports of export in the south.

SHOT FROM DARK FINDS ITS MARK

Youth Comes Into Police Station to Have His Wound Dressed Last Night.

With his blue shirt sleeve soggy and discolored with blood, his lips white from pain, Wilson Terrell, a youth of 16 years, was brought into the police station last night at 11:30 by the ambulance. He said that he had been shot while sitting beside the Prince Trucks, by some person whom he did not know. Five or six negro boys were seen in the neighborhood a little later.

Terrell was sitting beside the railroad track resting before he should clamber over the ties for the 2½ miles into Dewey where his step-parents are living. He heard a shot ring out and then he felt the pain in his arm and fled with his other hand he discovered a hole. He saw a group of dark-skinned boys half a block away but does not know whether they carried it on.

Terrell had been working in the glass plant at Sapulpa for the last few days but decided to quit yesterday morning. He came to Tulsa yesterday in search of health.

Dr. S. DeZell Howley, superintendent of health, dressed the wound last night but was unable to locate the bullet which still remains in the arm.

When last seen the youth was walking north along Main with his right arm in a sling in the direction of the Prince trucks.

Wilson Terrell was shot in the shoulder, the bullet passing close enough to him that it cut the collar of his coat. Terrell then shot again and the shot entered the negro's body above the loins on the right side and produced almost instant death.

Kilgore immediately came to Bristow and surrendered himself to Deputy Sheriff James A. Self, and the deputy took him to Sepulpa this morning.
